

4055 Zinnia Road (was Hollywood Road) 1916
Kate Maria and James McGaghey

"Oblana" was designed and probably built by J.G. (John?) Little (see 4353 Wilkinson Road) for the McGagheys. James McGaghey was a plumber. The house is a Craftsman bungalow with flared hipped roof and gabled verandah roof. From one storey on the front, the back of the house drops down the hill, and a two-storey verandah is visible from Interurban Road. This verandah has five large square columns which continue through the two storeys. The front verandah has short, wide columns, with a solid balustrade relieved by a cutout panel. The main floor double-bevelled siding contrasts with the shingled siding above and below. The gable shingles are staggered every second course. The window surrounds have shaped sides and mouldings top and bottom.
