651 Battery Street.

finished 1912 — some interior finishing carried on until 1913.

The inside woodworking was by a craftsman named Chapman.

Thomas J. Ryan and his wife Helen had retired from Sudbury. Ryan had been a government agent and one of the first mayors of Sudbury. Helen (Dr. Helen Ryan MRCP and S of Ontario) had been one of the first women in Canada to qualify as a physician after she graduated from Queens in 1885. They had five children.

The architect was J.C.M. Keith.

(Telephone conversation with Joan Ryan, Sept. 12 '84)

Donald Luxton.