ARCHITECT

Ewart & Schroeder 1893

Ewart & Carrie 1898-1901

A first generation Canadian of Scottish descent, Alexander Charles Ewart was born in Holland Township, Grey County, Ontario on October 3, 1854 to Andrew Johnston Ewart, a farmer, and Mary Russell. By the late 1870s he had made his way to the confluence of the Willamette and Mary Rivers in Oregon, where he settled in the town of Corvallis. There, on February 2, 1881, he married Annette Evalyn Chase of Montezuma, Iowa. Five of their six children were born in Corvallis, although only three of them would reach adulthood.

Soon after the birth of their fifth child in 1891 the Ewart family moved to Victoria where Alexander found employment in the offices of well-known local architect, John Teague. His first project in 1892 was to build his family a superb Queen Anne-style home that still stands on Begbie Street. The design incorporates an asymmetrical roofline and a combination of board and batten, patterned shingle work, and other decorative elements of the style. The charming sunburst design popular with the English aesthetic movement, which appears on the porch gable and on the façade, was a motif used by Ewart on other buildings throughout his career.

Also working in the office of John Teague in 1893 was a young architect named Julius C. Schroeder. Ewart and Schroeder collaborated on two small projects in that year including a toilet building for Central School, but soon parted ways. Ewart, now on his own, began a modest but productive career. He was a talented architect, skilled in incorporating many of the popular architectural elements of the day into his designs. Some of his commissions included the brick and stone Pemberton Gymnasium for the Central School, 1894, the Odd Fellows Lodge in Duncan, 1894, and a three storey brick and stone building for the well-known wholesale liquor merchant, Simon Leiser. Built in 1896, the Leiser building still stands at the corner of Yates Street and Waddington Alley.

In 1895 William J. Pendray, a successful soap producer and subsequent paint manufacturer, hired Ewart to design a large home on Belleville Street overlooking the harbour and near the future site of his paint factory. This massive home, in the Queen Anne Free Classic style, featured a circular corner tower, three kinds of patterned shingles and recessed balconies. Still standing, the house is currently a restaurant and bed and breakfast. Four years later Pendray again called upon Ewart's talents, this time to design the British America Paint Company factory on Laurel Point, 1899.

During the spring of 1897 Ewart moved his family and practice to Nelson, B.C. arriving just two months after the incorporation of the City. In the late 1890s this town, on the bank of the west arm of Kootenay Lake, was burgeoning, with mining and lumbering as the economic mainstays. He set up his office in the Clement & Hillier Block, the first brick block to be constructed in Nelson. During the next seven months he received eight commissions including the McKillop Block, 1897, Judge John Forin's House, 1897, and the Hume Hotel, 1897. Designed in the Queen Anne style, The Hume had a characteristic corner tower, oriel windows and recessed balconies as well as an ornate interior with all the "modern" amenities such as electricity and steam radiators. In the 1920s it was stripped of all its exterior architectural embellishments and stuccoed.

In 1898 Ewart took on Alexander Carrie as a partner. Carrie was born November 14, 1863 in Toronto, Ontario to Gideon Carrie and Helen (Reid). He arrived in Winnipeg in 1892 where he studied for one year under architect H.S. Griffith and two years with Hugh McCowan, also of Winnipeg. On March 26, 1894 Carrie married Lizzie Elliot in Donald, B.C., and the following year moved to Nelson. One of Ewart & Carrie's first projects together was a hardware store for James Lawrence, 1898. The imposing row of three arched windows on the third storey curving from two storey pilasters, the decorative brickwork and fine row of corbelling on this building are outstanding examples of Ewart's talents. The same year plans were prepared for a competition for the City Hall in Kaslo. Ewart & Carrie's design was one of three submitted to Kaslo City Council on June 3, 1898 for approval. The design proposals were put to a vote. Their design received three of the six votes, the Mayor thought the count too close so a second vote was taken, this time it received four votes. Built in the Free Classic style, this handsome two storey frame building is surmounted by a square bell tower. An unusual two storey pedimented portico and a double curved staircase dominate the entry. Although the plans came from the office of Ewart & Carrie, it appears that Carrie was the partner who was most involved with the project.

Other commissions the partners received included the Nelson Baptist Church (now unrecognizably altered), 1898, the Tremont Block, 1899, the Congregationalist Church (later St. Paul's), 1900, and the Provincial Land Registry Office, 1899-1900. On the entrance to the Land Registry the decorative brickwork is again a key feature. In addition, the dentilated pediment surrounding a semi-circular window gives an elegant look to these well fortified premises. They also designed the city's largest commercial building of the era, the K.W.C. Block, built for three businessmen, Kirkpatrick, Wilson and Clements, 1900-01. Its distinctive corner turret is still a downtown landmark.

In 1901 Ewart and Carrie dissolved their partnership and in July, 1902 the Ewart family departed Nelson and returned to Corvallis, Oregon. Alexander Ewart died in Portland on January 8, 1916. Carrie continued a highly productive practice that lasted another forty-six years. Some of his commissions included the residence for the local superintendent of the Canadian Pacific Railway, 1908, the YMCA Building, 1909, and the Kerr Apartments, 1911. This rather unique apartment block, constructed entirely of granite quarried from the building site, lacks the elegant influence of Ewart. Instead, the influence of the popular Richardsonian Romanesque can be seen in the rusticated stonework, arched entrance and unpretentious design. He also received contracts to design several schools including the Nelson High School, 1902, and schools in Trail and Grand Forks. In addition to his architectural career, Carrie served nineteen years in the Militia 102nd Regiment (Rocky Mountain Rangers) attaining the rank of Captain and becoming an expert marksman. In 1922 he applied for membership in the Architectural Institute of B.C. Alexander Carrie died in Nelson, B.C. in July, 1947.

REV. DR. J. MCCOY, VETERAN PASTOR, CALLED TO REST

Dean of Presbyterian Ministry in B.C. Succumbs After Long Illness

REV. DR. JOSEPH MCCOY

After a lingering illness of five months' duration, Rev. Joseph McCoy, M.A., D.D., dean of Presbyterian ministers in British Columbia, and a resident of Victoria since 1903, passed away at 3.05 a.m. to-day at the family residence, 1458 Begbie Street, in his eightieth year.

Ordained to the Presbyterian ministry forty-eight years ago, the venerable minister was signally honored in September, 1922, when Westminster Hall Theological College conferred upon him the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity in recognition of his long and distinguished service in the Presbyterian Church in Canada.

Joseph McCoy was born at Hamilton, Ontario, in 1847, and educated at Hamilton Collegiate Institute. He proceeded to Toronto University, from which he graduated in 1875, having been a first-class honor man throughout his entire course, and carrying off the silver medal in the Department of Natural Science. The following year he took his M.A.

Entering Knox Theological College, he was privileged to sit under the late v. Wm. Caven, M.A., D.D., and his associate professors. Here again Dr. McCoy was a first-class honor and scholarship man throughout.

On February 3, 1879, Dr. McCoy was ordained, and inducted into the pastoral charge of Egmondville, in the Presbytery of Huron. Here he ministered successfully for ten years, at the end of which time he accepted a call to St. Andrew's Church, Chatham, New Brunswick. After nine years laboring in that field, he offered his services to the Home Mission Board under the late Dr. James Robertson.

In 1898 Dr. McCoy came to British Columbia to take charge of the Home Mission work along the line of construction of the Columbia and Western Railway with headquarters at Cascade. He was peculiarly adapted to this work, having a keen understanding of humanity and a quick and ready sympathy with all sorts and conditions of men. Here he laid the foundation for much of the splendid work that has since been done in the West Kootenay country.

Coming to Victoria in 1903, Dr. McCoy was appointed to the Home Mission charge of Knox, St. Columba and St. Aidan's Churches. When in 1909 Knox Church decided to take a big forward step and become a self-sustaining congregation calling its own minister, Dr. McCoy was the unanimous choice of its people.

Beloved by his congregation for his gentle, kindly disposition, he was equally honored by his fellow-ministers. Since his illness Rev. Henry Knox has been officiating in the pastorate at Knox Church.

Dr. McCoy has been several times Moderator of the Synod of British Columbia and one year was appointed delegate to the Pan-Presbyterian World's Council held in Europe.

In April, 1879, he married Mary Huckins, only daughter of Joseph Huckins, of Toronto, who survives him, and of the five children four are still living: Mrs. W. A. Jameson, of this city; Oswald McCoy, of Edmonton; Mrs. S. J. Mitchell and Arthur McCoy of Victoria.

The remains are reposing at the Sands Funeral Chapel. Funeral services will be held at the Knox Presbyterian Church, Stanley Avenue, on Wednesday at 3.30 p.m.

The former Emmanuel Baptist Church at Fernwood and Gladstone is now home of the Belfry Theatre.

Emmanuel Baptist Church

In 1874, Victoria, with a population of about 4,000 inhabitants the largest city in British Columbia, got a Baptist church when Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Clyde, with family, moved to the city from Stratford, Ontario seeking Baptist followers.

May 3, 1876, Pastor William Carnes assumed the leadership of a sixteen-member congregation which entered the Puget Sound Baptist Association as the North Star Mission. Growth was slow at first, but on November 29, 1885, the Mission then known as the Calvary Baptist Church opened a Sunday school on Edmonton (now Bay) Street.

The early enrollment of 35 youngsters grew steadily, resulting in property being acquired at the corner of Fernwood and Gladstone, the latter then called North Chatham. This was Spring Ridge, in those years the outer fringe of Victoria. The small chapel was built and dedicated in 1887 and still stands strong as a century-old structure.

On August 8, 1890, the Emmanuel Baptist Church came into being and was officially recognized by the Northwest Baptist Convention held on September 4, 1890 in Victoria. The sanctuary was built in 1892.

The first pastor was the Rev. C.W. Townsend of the Pastor's College in England who settled here in September 1890. Rev. Townsend was followed in turn by the following Baptist priests in the early years: Rev. P.H. McEwan, June 1892; Rev. O.E. Kendall, June 1897; and Rev. J.G. Hastings, June 1899.

The architect of the church was Mr. Thomas Hooper and the construction superintendent was Mr. H. Adams. The cost of the building was $8,000.²

Located exactly at what is known as the "Fernwood Spine", that interesting historical intersection of Fernwood and Gladstone avenues, it is a landmark both in terms of the community and Greater Victoria.

Closing on a historic note, the church was always active in the community:

The choir of Emmanuel Baptist Church Fernwood Road are hard at work in preparation for their annual concert music. They are being assisted by many well-known singers of this city and the public may look forward to this event as one of the special music treats of the season. A united practice will be held on Tuesday evening.³

Knox Presbyterian Church

No longer existent, the Knox Presbyterian Church stood on Stanley Avenue, and served the area for 67 years.

Like other local churches, it was started as a Sunday School in 1894 by the Christian Endeavor Society of the Young People of the First Presbyterian Church. In early years, near the turn of the century, the Knox Presbyterian was affiliated with St. Aidans United and St. Colombia, now Oak Bay United.

The first congressional meeting was held on January 30, 1895, when the initial board of governors was elected with A. McKenzie in the chair. The first member of the church received on profession of faith, was Alfred Huxtable on December 16, 1894. The first baptism was that of Thomas McKenzie on July 1, 1894.⁴

By 1909, the church property was mortgage free and on May 16th of that year, Knox inducted its own pastor, the Rev. Joseph McCoy. Special ceremonies were held on the evenings of May 18th and 19th to welcome Pastor McCoy. At this point the Knox Church separated from its earlier association with St. Aidan's United and St. Colombia, Oak Bay United.

In March 1911, it was decided to erect a new church on the corner of Stanley and Gladstone avenues. The congregation gathered on March 16th to enjoy a splendid banquet prepared by the Ladies Aid Society. Reported as a most enjoyable and harmonious evening, a number of pleasantries took place including Irish songs and "Within a Mile O' Edinburgh". The purpose of the evening was the authorization of the purchase of the new church site. On motion of a Mr. Drake, seconded by Alfred Huxtable, the acquisition of the tiny lots at the corner of Stanley and Gladstone avenues, was unanimously approved by the congregation. The singing of "Onward Christian Soldiers" brought the evening to close in total harmony.⁵

The Pentecostal Church of the Nazarene

The year 1912 brought the opening of the Church of the Nazarene in Fernwood. Located at Balmoral (then Figsard) and Chambers, a neat church was built by a small group of dedicated people called Nazarenes.

~~TIMES~~ 5 JULY 1927 p. 9
Impressive funeral services were held yesterday over the remains of the late Mrs. Mary Huckins McCoy, widow of the late Rev. Joseph McCoy, D.D. Many beautiful floral tributes covered the casket and hearse, and necessitated extra cars for their conveyance to the cemetery. A short family service was held at the home on Begbie Street, conducted by Rev. Dr. Clay, followed by a public service at Knox Presbyterian Church. This service was held under the auspices of the Presbytery of Victoria, the moderator, Rev. J. P. Patterson, presiding, assisted by Rev. R. W. Lee, president of the Ministerial Association, and Rev. George R. R. Cameron. The following acted as pallbearers: C. B. Jameson, J. Craig, W. C. Wilson, W. Douglas, Rev. T. S. Baynes and G. Akehurst.
