

999 Beach Drive

The Charles H. Parker Home

Built 1928

Architect: Samuel Maclure

Built over the summer of 1928 for Charles Parker, a journalist, this home cost $13,000. Commanding a fine ocean view, the Tudor Revival dwelling is one of several large properties along this stretch of Beach Drive, sometimes called "Bankers' Row".

The house was sympathetically extended in 1981, and much care has been lavished on the landscaping of this attractive property.

